CR100

Dear Pat: I read your note of Captain's Curt Smile in the latest issue which came in today. I had tears in my eyes after reading the whole note. I can understand the frustration you are going through dealing with the hotels, etc. I do not believe you can contact real people through the Internet. The contacts I have had on the Internet are none--I have exchanged e-mails with so many of them, and none of them I have met. I remember when I first received a small flyer from Bruce and you in 1987 about Swan. The moment I saw it I sent for a subscription, and I knew this would be a very exciting magazine. It has always been and has gotten better and better over the years. Yes, you and Bruce have brought in so much happiness to so many people in this world. I am going through the same kind of stress as you are, taking care of Bruce, as I do everything except have a cleaning lady who comes to clean the house. Jim's mind is failing; he has symptoms of Alzheimers. He forgets and repeats, etc. The stress has affected me sexually and my blood pressure is sky high. I know what you are going through. Of course it has affected my business too. I know I have already made this letter too long, as you have so much to do, but I just want to let you know how I felt and how much respect and love I have for Bruce and you. Love and Hugs [Name Withheld/Florida]

Dear Pat and Bruce: Just finished my copy; loved all the sexy men; wish a few more were without their swim wear, tho. Loved your "Salvage" ... more than I wanted to know about embalming, however. My best to you, dear Bruce. You are an inspiration, and Pat's care of you should set an example. My partner is still hanging in. We are going on 6 years of his paralysis, and he has more complications all the time. We have to put him in the hospital soon, and I dread the usual cavalier treatment he will receive. It means I spend almost every waking moment at his side to ensure they don't let something slip, or at least do him physical harm. He always comes home with bruises and cuts, and for an 85-year-old diabetic, you know how serious that can be. The caregiver(me), as you know, has to stand between the hospital personnel--doctors included--to see him through it. By the way: ANGEL on page 33, is my idea of heaven. Love you and hope all the turmoil you have been through gets rewarded daily by the small signs of love you see in the people you have brought together, and those you have entertained (like me). Just had my 63rd birthday this week, and I am looking forward to many more ... damn the torpedoes! Warmest love and support. TJ/San Francisco

Pat and Bruce -- My copy of C.R, 100 arrived today; I read Captain Curt's Smile. I have told you before, and at length, how my decision in 1995 to go to Orlando altered my perspective, my way of living and of thinking about my fondness for men and about the pleasure and the beauty which has been yielded by that fondness. Because you, the magazine, the gathering, helped a shy and still guilt-ridden aging man transform himself into Delta Man, building a much better life. I have only just met each of you at gatherings, yet to you, your work, I owe so much that I would like to say, Pat and Bruce: If one more expression of gratitude and best wishes helps at all in meeting your challenge and coping with your financial problems, accept that gratitude and those wishes from me. Van [via e-mail]

Hi Pat and Bruce. Many thanks for sending us an advance copy of the article. Selfishly, I started reading, looking first for ME and Paul, then I decided maybe you had e-mailed the wrong article. But wait ... there it is ... found it: words about Curt's smile and Paul's too! We liked what you said and there is definitely no embarrassment on our part. But that is not all. Now I have gone back and read the entire article twice. Paul is now on his second time around. Listen guys, you have touched our hearts more than we could have touched yours. Frankly I had no idea how much grief you had gone through. It is easy to just attend gatherings and enjoy them and even be appreciative without knowing the full scope of what has gone on before and some of the pain associated with the endeavor. What I am trying to say is this: The article touches our hearts and brings tears to our eyes and it is not because you talked about us. It is because we have a much better grasp of the struggle CR has been for you guys and much more appreciation for what you have done for so many guys ... including us! Don't give up the ship. My almost 68 years on this earth have taught me that things work out for the best if we let them. There is a power greater than us that takes our troubles and mistakes and gives us the result of more wisdom for the future. I am sure you do this already but let me remind you: remember the smiles you have caused to happen--not just Curt's and Paul's--but many many others! Thanks. Captain Curt and Paul

THE DVD

Just wanted to say thanks as I received my dvd this past Saturday. It is great to have both films available again. I first found CR magazine in 1997. I came across a copy at a book store in West Hollywood. At that time, I was amazed to find such a magazine that represented my tastes. Thank you for helping me to understand and accept myself by showing me a world where I belonged. If possible, please express my gratitude to Rob Dadeo. The film MOJAVE was very well done, but It was QUADRAPLEX that took my breath away. Rob Dadeo is one of the most beautiful men on the planet. Thanks to him for sharing that beauty with us. If there is a way, I would like to send a note of appreciation to him myself, and would appreciate any suggestions. Thanks again for a great video. My best to you and CR in all future endeavors! Bobby607xx

Hello from France. Just received your dvd today. My God! it's just absolutely fabulous. I was dreaming about this two films since so many years, but missed ordering them when they were on sale in CR. Thank you for your great work. Jean-Louis [via e-mail]

Thank God! Even though I couldn't make out the facial expression on the grainy copyofacopyofacopyofacopyofacopy that I got from a friend (please forgive the piracy), I still depended upon them to get me off. One look at the quality of your DVD with BOTH of my favorites, and into the trash the tapes went. Out of my life! I now have the real thing. God bless you, Pat & Bruce. T-Rexas/Amarillo

Pat: Received my dvd in the mail on Thursday. I am extremely happy to report it is an outstanding piece of work on your part. Judging from my "response", I would give it 5 stars!!!! Of particular note, given that this is my first male/adult dvd purchase, I am very taken with Herman the German. Not knowing much about him or his background, I sure would like to see /learn more about him. I am 39 and he really does it for me. I assume from what I saw on the CR website that he is deceased. At any rate, he was a wonderful looking gentleman and a sexy stud to boot. Would enjoy seeing more of his work. Steve [via e-mail]

MATUREIMAGE.COM

I am honored to be included in Abe Orgega's outstanding website, MatureImage.com, the classiest of them all. It is a pay site, but the elegantly dissolving slide shows and sheer volume of exquisite photography makes the cost worthwhile. Here are some comments from my "fans":

Hi baby y saw you in mature image and y want your body you are very very sexy kiss you how long your cock? :) [via e-mail]

Oh, Patrick! I had no idea that you had so much sex appeal. Always wanted to know what you look like in the buff. Now I want to know what you taste like. QTZ [e-mail]

Fatty Patty Prozac: you look like a beeched [sic] whale. In-shape Jackrabbitt [sic] in Palm Springs.

JIPS: Congratulations on being in-shape. Been checked for Hepatitis B or C lately?

AND SPEAKING OF FAT

I can't continue to be a subscriber of CR Magazine because of the direction you have taken. You choose to put so many obese pictures in your magazine. I'm overweight myself, so I can feel for these men, but I don't like looking at them. Your magazine had a nice selection of shapes and sizes when I started seven years ago. The quality of the photos has been just awful. This month's magazine is terrible in the color of the pictures. So I choose to stop taking the CR. If the quality improves, maybe I will return. For the price you charge and the quality I get, I don't like it. Thank you very much. Bill P./Salem, OR

We compared CR 100 and CR 69 to see if Bill was right. CR 69 - 60 pages with 12 in color. Total slim models: 15; total average: 24; total chub: 23; total superchub: 5. CR 100- 80 pages with 16 in color. Total slim models: 12; total average: 34; total chub: 10; total superchub: 7. The centerfold featured 53 men in every size and color.

WTC

I went for long time on your web site and I only to say you "YOU ARE NOT ALONE. " I can not do anything for the terroriste attack (and for the war in général) but I can only repeat for all American people that lot of French brothers are with you. In the second world war you help us and I was "reconnaissant " for that all my life. I am with you ... ALBERT/ PARIS

I notice that you have installed a message of solidarity and condolences regarding the September 11th massacre. Did you know that, as far as I can determine, you are the only gay site that has one? You would think that the most deadly attack in the country's history was of no concern to the "gay and lesbian and bisexual and transgender" (transgender!?) community. Very sad and sorta repulsive. LAS VEGAS GATHERING

Bruce and Pat: May I find both of you in good cheers. I just received my latest copy of CR. And as always, I enjoy the pictures and yes the letters and articles. This is my fourth issue that I have received as a CR subscriber. A friend of mine that I had met on the internet was the one that told me about the CR website. I really don't know this type of circle of friends ever existed. This friend of mine that I had never met had attended previous gatherings. After so many chats we both decided over the Internet to attend the Las Vegas Gathering. To my surprise we finally met after so many e-mails and sharing pictures from one end of the country to another. Anyway, I really enjoyed his company as well as all the other outstanding men I met at the gathering. I just celebrated my 43rd birthday and to my surprise I received one of the best gifts anyone could have received: a one-year subscription to CR. Yes, my internet friend really surprised me with this one. He is one of the nicest men and a true friend. Thank you for helping me share this with everyone. I really had a great time at the gathering. I hope there are more to come in the near future. Keep up the great work! JZ/Texas

DEMISE OF THE GATHERINGS

Dear Pat: We are saddened to learn that you plan no more Hotel Gatherings. We attended the one in Orlando, New Orleans and Miami and enjoyed all three--especially the one in Miami. We were unable to attend the Las Vegas Gathering and will not be able to attend the cruise in May. First, we cannot financially afford the cruise. Second, this being a ship open to the public--a lot of people from our area take yearly cruises and because of professional reasons we couldn't be seen by our straight friends with gay friends on a cruise. Do you understand? So many of us who attended could afford these gatherings, but the price of the cruise is out of our reach. Can you deprive us of the fellowship with all the good looking guys we met at the Gatherings? We will have to try to find another organization that will give us the opportunity to meet and be with men of like interests. Just hope that you will find some way to bring the Hotel Gatherings back into being. You have done a superb Job and we appreciate you. Have pity on us. Gayily yours, Arthur and Guy.

Hello there CR friends. My partner and I thought the Miami gathering was great. So do all of the wonderful friends we met. When will there be another gathering of this magnitude? I'm sure the cruises are fine for some but not for the majority. Exclusive use of a resort or hotel is what we need to really be ourselves. Not all the beautiful men that attend your gatherings can be absolutely comfortable in a mixed environment. That is why I thought the Miami get-together was such a smash. Please look into this for us, the family, we need these few days in our years to let loose and have fun, be ourselves, and enjoy one another. Love to all you beautiful Mature men! Grant and Dave

The term "really be ourselves" begs some further analysis. First, there was a mixed environment at the hotel in Miami Beach. There were straight waiters and female employees everywhere, and there were hotel Spa guests coming and going, even children. I didn't see anyone uncomfortable with that. Secondly, we were allowed to be ourselves by dancing together and showing affection for one another. That is precisely what we are offering on the cruise. If, on the other hand, one uses the term "really be ourselves" to mean the unauthorized crap described in my closing comments in this issue, then please do "find another organization."

Stop bellyaching about your low attendance for the gatherings. You brought this on yourself by letting the slut patrol take over. The last Orlando gathering wasn't too bad, although Tomcat did way too much talking and not enough playing dance music. The New Orleans thing was decadent and looked like it was turning into a jackrabbitt party. I wanted to get you aside, slap you into reality and tell you that you were giving Tomcat too much latitude and turning people off. I'm not a prude, but I think that nudity should have its own place. Then lo and behold you give him carte blanche in Miami Beach and he puts on a revolting, boring, off-the-map spectacle rife with gross sexual overtones. I came to dance, but there was little dance music. I still cringe when I see those three women travel agents sitting there unaware of Tomcat's perverse intentions. Why were they there in the first place? I left in disgust just about the time the fired up crowd, led by Tomcat, intimidated the elderly woman to pull down some drunk's underwear. It is a crying shame that you allowed the Sluts to ruin a convention that, until Tomcat took over, was one of the most remarkable events (Marshall's show, the recitals, the workshops, the ambience) I had ever seen. A LOT of people share my sentiments. August in Atlanta

CR: Just because you can't get rich is no reason to deprive fixed income guys like me of these annual life savers. Shame on you. OLDERVET

A lot of guys were less diplomatic, but most seem to think I am the bad guy. Since I'm not the bad guy, it's high time you found out who is. See my closing comments.

HARBINGER OF DOOM

Hi, yall, just finished reading WHORES on your website. What are you, some Nostradamus type? Hits close to home. Things are beginning to turn out just the way you predicted with the Anthrax (you use the word Cythrax) and the release of an epidemic by Middle Eastern terrorists. Spooky. K.C. BIG DOG

Scares me too. Thought I would publish a segment of WHORES in this issue. Enjoy.

ANONYMITY PART . . . (YAWN)

We get lots of negative mail, and since the World Trade Center disaster, we have gotten much more than normal. One guy was especially hurt when I challenged his intelligence. He replied:

Yes, I'm afraid I know more about you than you might think! I know you fools don't play fair, so I'm not as dumb as you may think. I'll catch you eventually at one of your gatherings, might piss in your drink. Or better yet, fuck you and you not even be the wiser! I know who you are, you have no idea who I am ... think about it! By the way, your precious magazine won't be around forever ... I will relish the thought of seeing it fold! Oh, and by the way, the original reason I was going to contact you guys was that I know of at least 3 websites that are selling bootleg copies of your video library ... for $50 a pop! The kicker is that the people who are selling them are well known to you all, and you don't know any better! See what you get for being a prick? Also, you state in your magazine that it's not for resale anywhere, guess what? Yup, you guessed it ... I know people who own shops (even there in California) that sell CR. Joseph [via e-mail]

We dedicate to "Joseph" the reprise of the poem FLAMER in this issue. A personal note to Joseph: I thought about it. I don't have sex with guys who reek with toxicity. Piss in my drink? How colorful. How's this for color? You, having emergency surgery to remove a broken glass from your colon.

PALM SPRINGS

I just want to say again, "Thank You." I know these gatherings are very difficult to pull off. I want you to know that you have changed society in America. I visited Palm Springs last week for the first time in 10 years and WOW what a difference. Many of the men that lived closeted lives prior to your gatherings are now very comfortable living in Palm Springs and enjoying life to the fullest. Thanks again, Jack (via e-mail)

Jack's praise will no doubt rile a few guys who want to rewrite history. First came Swan/CR, then came Mike Deveau, then came the flood. Mike--God love him--is Palm Springs' real pioneer.

I moved to Palm Springs a year ago, but I never heard of CR until recently. How cheeky of you to dish Palm Springs. You sound jealous of Prime Timers. R.R.

Absolutely green with envy. Read my closing comments.

MINI-TERRORISM

One of those letters that makes you stop and think:

I really enjoyed your 100 issue. In pre-20th century times, insults were met with an invitation to duel, and someone invariably got killed. In the old west, people who insulted indiscriminately were filled with lead. Prior to the 80s, an insult triggered a fist fight. The anonymous insult was almost unheard of. There was always that post office stamp, and anonymity isn't complete unless both the identify and location are both masked. Enter the age of anonymous e-mail. All those guys who had to repress their anger and hatred in the past can now fire away with virtually no danger of consequences. In light of the near impossibility of a successful lawsuit, even legal measures are out of the question. Why do people do this? Because they CAN.

Man can be categorized in many ways: his body shape, his race, his politics, his sexual preferences, his age, etc. But I have rarely seen categories having to do with morality. I have met men whom I consider to be almost saint-like. They are kind and deeply involved in something that is helping humanity. Hateful, anonymous e-mail? Never. I know men who are benevolent toward their own families, lovers, and tight circles of friends and who have a lesser degree of concern for the plight of others. Hateful, anonymous e-mail? Way out of character here as well. I am continually aware of quite a few men who are only passionate about their own lives yet indifferent to most others. And then there are those who exhibit no happiness, no compassion. These latter two are quite capable of sending anonymous e-mail.

Some men are naturally decent while others commit to decency because of religious reasons. These types are consistently civil, even benevolent. Many are civil in a trade-off: you treat me with civility, and I'll do the same. But how many people would remain civil and law-abiding if there was no rule of law? How many would steal, maim or kill if they thought they wouldn't be punished by law or God?

In Poland during the start of World War II, the Nazis occupied a village that had an equal population of Jews and Christians. The Nazis didn't kill the Jews. Instead, they authorized the Christians to kill the Jews. They didn't order them to do so, mind you. They said it would be okay. Within weeks, the Christians of the village had brutally murdered all the Jews, often times getting tips from the Nazis on how to be even more brutal than they themselves could imagine. Why did they do this? Because they COULD.

I'm not talking about the evil that's a product of hate and retribution--the kinds that cause wars. The evil of which I speak is evil borne of apathy and cowardice. Indifference, fermenting in an atmosphere of lawlessness, begets evil, and I maintain that too many people on this earth are basically indifferent. I've always been told that there is good in everyone. Perhaps that is so, but how much? Is it enough to inspire doing something profound in life, or is it a pittance that is easily neutralized by a huge dose of "I don't give a damn!"?

So why do these mini-terrorists send hurtful and provocative anonymous e-mails? Because they are inherently indifferent to the feelings of others. If they thought they could get by with it, they would be tossing a hand grenade through the window of those they dislike. Morally, there is no difference between tossing an anonymous hateful message and torching someone's house. The people who are prone to such actions would do either if they thought they could get by with it.

The losers who send you all this garbage are morally bankrupt cowards who will never amount to anything viable in this world. When their power high wears off, they will slink back to the keyboard to continue their search for someone who doesn't recoil at their stench of vitriol.

So how do you handle it? These particular types of cowards are primarily looking for some evidence of getting your goat. "Look what I was able to do: make Pat Colley angry." Your response is a medal he wears with pride. To ignore him gives him some pleasure, because he will assume that he made you angry. You must remind them of what they are: mostly illiterate, damaged cowards, filled with more acid that the "Alien" monsters. I read that idiot's response to your "Fuck You" on the Silverfox List (that cacophonic cesspool of rancid thoughts and meaningless opinions). He was so wounded that he was seeking consolation. I seem to remember years back when you went for the throat of some psycho in Philadelphia. He got so hurt that he threatened you in writing (huge mistake). Keep aiming for the balls. From what I read in the last issue, you really don't have much to lose. Good luck. Wendell B./Pittsburgh

OK HANK JOKE

Three blokes had a very late night drinking Guiness. They left in the early morning hours and went home separately. They met the next day for an early pint, and compared notes about who was drunkest.

The first guy claims that he was the drunkest, saying, "I drove straight home, walked into the house, and as soon as I got through the door, I blew chunks."

To which the second guy replied, "You think that was drunk? I got in my car, drove out of the parking lot, and wrapped my car around the first tree I saw. I don't even have insurance!"

And the third proclaimed, "I was by far the most drunk. I got home, got in a big fight with my wife, knocked a candle over and burned the whole house down!"

There was silence for a moment and then the first guy exclaimed, "Listen, guys, I don't think you understand... Chunks is my dog."

CATMAN

LEN'S JOKE

An old man walks into a confessional. The following conversation ensues:

Man: I am 92 years old, have a wonderful wife of 70 years, many children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren. Yesterday, I picked up two college girls, hitch-hiking. We went to a motel, where I had sex with each of them three times.

Priest: Are you sorry for your sins?

Man: What sins?

Priest: What kind of a Catholic are you?

Man: I'm Jewish.

Priest: Then why are you telling me all this?

Man: I'm telling everybody.

Len is one of the finest opera and Broadway singers in the world. He gave an unforgettable performance in Miami Beach. He is the life partner of CR model and gathering workshop speaker, BEARPAWS.

VARIATIONS

Things have changed pretty drastically in this world we live in. People are losing their jobs left and right, companies are folding, and postage rates are about to go through the roof. We therefore announce the following changes in the way we operate. We regret any inconvenience.

NEW SUBSCRIPTION RATES TO COVER PREVIOUS 5-YEAR AND ANTICIPATED POSTAL INCREASES: (current cost to mail an issue in U.S. - $2.41; cost to mail to Europe - $4.68)

Base subscription for 4 quarterly issues - U.S. $32.00, or $8 per issue.
Add first class postage and handling for U.S. --
$12.00, or a total of $44.00
Add air mail P & H for Canada, Mexico, or Central/South America -
$16.00, or a total of $48.00
Add air mail P & H for Europe/Middle East --
$20.00, or a total of $52.00
Add air mail P & H for Asia, Africa, or Pacific Rim --
$24.00, or a total of $56.00

TOLL-FREE TELEPHONE NUMBER: Disconnected to save money and to make it more expensive for those who leave anonymous, hostile/harassing messages.

CERTIFIED, REGISTERED, AND EXPRESS MAIL POSTAGE AND PACKAGES TO OUR P.O. BOX: We will no longer wait in line at the post office to sign for special mail, packages or items with postage due. If you have a package to send us, call us for special shipping instructions. If you are considering sending cash: don't. If you are suing us, figure out a more creative way to advise us. Oh, yeah, we will NOT open any letter without a return name and address on it.

AMERICAN EXPRESS AND DISCOVER CARDS: We will only accept Master Card and Visa charges. We no longer honor American Express or Discover.

CREDIT CARD CHARGEBACKS: If a customer initiates an unfounded chargeback debit simply because he has forgotten that we are COCOS ROJOS, he will be billed a processing fee of $25, payable by check or subscription reduction. Rebuttals to chargebacks are time consuming and an unfair pain in the ass.

DVD CREDIT CARD SALES: We will no longer accept credit card purchases for DVDs from nonsubscribers. DVD-only customers must pay by check or money order.

CHIRON RISING: No longer exists. Checks or money orders made out to Chiron Rising will be returned, holding up your order.

DONATED or FREE SUBSCRIPTIONS: No longer possible. We profoundly regret our financial inability to continue supporting those who are needy.

PLEASE READ THIS:

1. COMMERCIAL RESPONSE TO PERSONAL ADS: The express purpose of our personal ads is to aid our readers in finding friends and mates. Any ads of a commercial nature must be placed in the commercial section. Readers responding to personal ads may not use such opportunity to distribute commercial materials. We reserve the right to deny advertising and forwarding privileges to any person found doing this.

2. PERSONAL ADVERTISER'S RESPONSIBILITY: Personal advertisers are urged to answer all mail received, provided the responder is generally the type of person targeted in the ad. We will deny advertising and forwarding privileges to flagrant, repeat offenders.

3. PUBLISHER'S LIMITATION OF RESPONSIBILITY: We take no responsibility for any undesirable relationship or experience resulting from the use of our classified ads, be they personal or commercial. We will monitor all ads and refuse to publish those which obviously imply fraud or peril. Very unsavory people have been known to use publications to victimize readers and advertisers. Seemingly innocent ads designed to lure as many readers as possible into a criminal scam or government sting operation are sometimes placed in erotic magazines. These people also respond to the ads of others with the same come-on. We urge our readers to use these ads with the utmost caution and common sense.

4. AGE REQUIREMENT: All responders and advertisers must be 18 or over. The exclusion of an age limitation in any ad does not constitute an invitation to minors.

5. OUTDATED ADS: Do not answer ads in older issues. People move and post office boxes change hands. Your letter could end up in the wrong hands. Unforwardable letters will be marked with a "U" and returned to sender.

6. SEXUALLY EXPLICIT ADS: We will not publish ads with sexually explicit or coarse language designed more for shock value than for attracting a partner. We reserve the right to edit, rewrite or reject ads.

ABOUT CR

CR Magazine is published quarterly by Patrick H. Colley, 61, with occasional part-time help from volunteers. Because we are forced to operate by triage, we respectfully ask our readers to be tolerant of the inevitable delays, screwups and miscommunications. If we err with your subscription or order, please contact us and we will more than make it up to you.

Patrick H. Colley takes sole responsibility for the content of CR, except for by-lined articles and fiction.

New to CR? Here are answers to some often asked questions:

We used to publish a magazine called SWAN in the beginning, but an obscure lesbian newsletter called THE SWAN forced us to change the name. We then published as CHIRON RISING for 13 years until the magazine's corporate owner fell into a legal mine field. But from the ashes of CHIRON RISING has risen a new magazine called simply CR. It is solely owned by yours truly, Patrick H. Colley.

CR models and writers want to hear from you. Follow the instructions at the end of THE CONTACT NETWORK.

The code on your address label indicates the number of your last subscription issue. We will include a reminder note inside the front cover, so don't miss it. A "V" means you're a cool, established customer eligible for unlimited free ads. A V2 or V3 entitles you to private favors and a LOT of pampering—within the realm of mutual civility, of course. These codes are based on total products and services purchased, not length of time with CR. A numeric code indicates that you have a credit balance for that amount.

If you would like to become a CR model, follow the instructions in BE A CR MODEL AND CHANGE YOUR LIFE.

We deeply regret that our issues do not distribute like clockwork. We do post a message with an estimated distribution date of the current issue, and that message can be heard by dialing toll-free: (888) 227-2935. Please do not inquire about an issue's status by calling our (760) number or by e-mail. We cannot field such a flood of inquiries.

Estimated publish dates: CR 102, 3/1/02, CR 103, 6/1/02, etc.

ALVARO ENTERS HELL from WHORES

A Novel by P.H. COLLEY

The following is an excerpt of Chapter One of my short novel, WHORES, a futuristic story about a male prostitute who is caught up in the chaos of extreme politics, war, and terrorism, and who is ultimately rescued by a rogue U.S. Army surgeon who defects and opens up a whore house for the enemy using a rag tag group of transsexuals. New York, the near future.

The smell of rancid garbage invaded Alvaro's cocaine-chafed nostrils, drawing his gaze to overflowing cans of refuse at the curb nearby. Nauseated, he walked further up Third Avenue, past three other male prostitutes. Finding the right spot, he leaned against a graffiti-marred brick wall next to an alley entrance.

An illuminated sign in the window of an adjacent store brightened Alvaro's face with flattering hues, highlighting his good looks and dark amber skin. The night was sultry, and his arms and hairless chest glistened with moisture. The green tank top clung to his torso and took on the color of chrome tourmaline as it soaked up the perspiration. The setting was right for hot sex, money for more drugs, oblivion. Pleased with the new location, he stroked his cock, coaxing it to swell.

A familiar Lexus SUV passed by a second time, prompting Alvaro to lick his lips and nod. Confident that the grey-haired driver would stop the next time around, he moved to the curb, glancing warily at his competition down the street.

The staccato of automatic rifle fire came from only blocks away. Perpetual sounds of sirens waxed and waned. A shuffling noise came from the alley, diverting his attention. Always vigilant while working the streets, he scanned the badly lit alley, vividly remembering his last beating by skinheads.

Flashing blue police lights reflected off the store front, and Alvaro coiled to flee. He looked toward the first prostitute and saw that an armored police van had turned the corner. It was cruising slowly past them, its beefy driver glowering at each hustler in turn. As the van reached Alvaro, a rifle barrel settled over the driver's shoulder from the passenger side. A tiny red light appeared and Alvaro realized that the cop's partner was pointing a laser-sighted assault rifle at his head. Terrified, he dodged away from the van as the two cops laughed. Another burst of gunfire came from the East River nearby and the police van sped away, its siren wailing.

His courage wearing thin, Alvaro flinched as someone inside the alley staggered toward him and stood weaving in the shadows. It was a familiar silhouette.

At the same time, Alvaro heard the sounds of an approaching line of cars and anxiously looked back toward the corner for the Lexus.

"Qué pasa, cabron?" A raspy voice from the shadows. "You're as nervous as a cat, man. Your head's going back and forth." A giggle.

Exasperated, Alvaro turned again and watched a thin Hispanic man with bleached hair emerge from the shadows. "Hey, Paco." Not now, he thought. Get rid of him. "Uhh ... I'm about to score with a grey, Paco. I'll catch you here in about twenty minutes, okay?"

Paco shrugged and clumsily sat down on the curb. "Sure."

Alvaro saw that there was something different about Paco. "Hey, man, what'd you get hold of? Got some more?"

"I'll be back in twenty minutes." Paco laughed and leaned back against the sidewalk.

"Seriously," prodded Alvaro. "I ain't ever seen you that stoned, man. What is it?" Again he looked down the street, just as the Lexus rounded the corner.

"Ozone," Paco crooned, rolling his eyes upward. "Best fucking ozone I ever had, man."

Alvaro had heard of the potent, new drug, but he'd never bought any. "I gotta have some of that, Paco," said Alvaro, keeping the car in his peripheral vision.

Abruptly, the car sped across to the other side of the avenue, stopping in front of a young man in biker clothing.

"Chinga!" Alvaro spat. "Faggot motherfucker."

"This is going to blow your mind, Alvaro," said Paco, getting the taller man's attention again. "The shit's free, man. Fucking free."

Alvaro quickly forgot about the lost trick. "Okay, what's the catch?"

"I just got back from Maxwell's place, man." He stuck his little finger into a small vial and coated the inside of his nose with a brown, honey-like substance.

"Shit, I owe that cocksucker money. He's looking for my ass." Alvaro fought the urge to grab the vial and run.

"I didn't see Maxwell. This weird dude's filling in for him. I think he's Israeli or something. While I was there, he let two black dudes in, man. Gave us all a hit plus one for the road. Yum-yum." He fluttered his tongue. " It knocked us out, man. Hell, we got wasted for about thirty fuckin' minutes. But on our way out, he turned away a couple of white dudes. And they were Maxwell's regular customers, too. Cocksuckers tried to get tough, and the Israeli busted one of 'em's nose with a fuckin' Uzi nine mil piece. I thought he was gonna blow the fucker's head off."

"Likes dark meat, huh?" asked Alvaro, his mouth watering in anticipation of the drug.

"No, he didn't fuck with us, man." Paco's eyes were becoming glassy and less functional. "At least I don't think he did. Funny, though . . . my arm . . . my arm is sore."

"What's the catch? Ozone's expensive as hell." Alvaro searched Paco's dilating pupils. "Earth to Paco, come in . . . ." He tried to pry the ozone out of Paco's hand, but the small man's fingers were locked.

After dragging Paco into the relative safety of the alley, Alvaro rushed the five blocks to Maxwell's apartment building on 77th Street.

Finding the elevator broken, he ran up the litter-strewn stairway to the third floor apartment. A formaldehyde-like odor in the hallway caused him to gag, prompting him to cover his nose with the bottom of his shirt. Afraid that Maxwell might be there, he listened for voices. Hearing nothing but the sound of a television set, he gently knocked.

A stocky man with dark brown eyes opened the door. "Yes?" He wore an expensive suit and a dazzling diamond and ruby ring. His hands appeared professionally manicured, and his greying, receding hair and beard were cut short. The fragrance of an exotic, spicy-sweet after-shave wafted from the man's face, reminding Alvaro of the fragrance worn by a brawny Turkish military attaché he'd blown in the back of a limousine the week before.

"Uhh . . . where's Maxwell?" Alvaro was amazed that "Maggot Maxwell" could know such a clean-cut, attractive man.

"Out. What do you need?" the man asked with a slight Middle East accent. His eyes sparkled with friendliness.

Alvaro surveyed the room behind the man. A television set was tuned to the news, and a telephone on the bar was off the hook. "Ozone? You got ozone?"

The man opened the door all the way and gestured for Alvaro to enter. "Have a seat and I'll be right with you."

Alvaro sat on a mildewed couch, cringing at the sight of cockroaches crawling on the wall behind the television set. The apartment was repressively dank; the horrible smell inside the apartment was worse than that in the hallway. Ignoring the insects and filth, he studied the man as he spoke on the telephone in a rapid foreign language. Alvaro assumed that he was speaking either Arabic or Hebrew.

The man's presence in Maxwell's apartment seemed so very strange to Alvaro. Maxwell, a deranged chemist who manufactured his own methamphetamine and distributed Bolivian cocaine, had no friends or partners. Because of his body odor, it was obvious that he never took a bath, and his mouth always reeked of advanced gum disease. His apartment was infested with mice, rats and millions of insects. It was no place for a sexy, well-heeled business type from the Middle East.

The sound of the television reached his senses, luring his attention to the screen. Three white men in conservative suits and ties sat behind a half-moon desk. The camera panned in tight on the anchor man.

"In Los Angeles today, police say there are no leads in the terrorist car-bombing that killed seventy-three people . . ."

A film clip featured a section of downtown Los Angeles. Pieces of twisted automobile wreckage and body parts lay near a car-length-wide crater, still simmering from the intense heat. Ambulance and fire truck sirens screamed and combined with squalls from the injured to create bizarre harmonics. A lingering close-up showed a severed foot still inside a shoe, followed by a shot of a mute woman being led away by a paramedic, her hands charred, her head void of hair or facial features.

". . . and injured over one hundred thirty. An anonymous caller stated that Esfahan, the terrorist group sponsored by the Union of Islamic Republics was responsible. Also in Los Angeles, four hundred ninety more reputed gang members were rounded up by army troops and transferred to Mojave Desert internment camps after a total of sixteen law enforcement personnel were slain last week."

An aerial tracking shot followed a caravan of prisoner busses as they arrived at an undisclosed checkpoint in the vast desert.

"Authorities believe that the murders were in retaliation for a police raid last month which resulted in the confiscation of a fourteen thousand-pound shipment of Mexican ozone. That raid left twenty-one gang members and seven Los Angeles policemen dead."

The camera scanned a long line of men and women with flat, lifeless expressions. Many were emaciated, barely able to stand. Others lay on the sidewalk, unable to move. Swarms of flies collected around pools of urine dotted with feces.

"Here in New York, city VD clinics are plagued with long lines of African-American, Hispanic and homosexual victims of the incurable, deadly strain of syphilis called Cythrax, the number one killer of minorities in this country. City spokesman Doctor Cyril Peakson reports that the only FDA approved treatment—Xerxes Pharmaceutical's controversial and very expensive new drug, 'Doplique'—is being administered free under a temporary, city-financed program. Unfortunately, the program is slated to be withdrawn in two weeks for lack of matching funds from the state. Bill?" the anchorman prompted, looking at the man to his left.

Hearing a pause in the telephone conversation, Alvaro turned and noticed that the stocky man was surveying him thoroughly. Eventually meeting Alvaro's gaze, he briefly smiled and resumed the conversation.

In spite of a sexual attraction to the man and his own need for a hit of ozone, Alvaro began to feel agitated. He felt a sense of dread, an urge to leave quickly. But instead of following his instincts, he resumed watching the news program, now featuring the co-anchor.

"And, after we return, we'll take you on a tour of Miami, where housing shortages have forced residents to share their homes with other families in twelve-hour shifts. Then we'll take another look at the current war on rats here in Manhattan. And we'll also update our report of last week on the mystery of the disappearance of thousands of homosexuals, i.v. drug users and street people. Gay leaders ask: 'Does anyone really care?'" He smiled slightly and added, softly, "We'll be back after this."

The stocky man suddenly laughed, then slapped his knee, absently scratching his groin.

Alvaro studied the man's crotch and noticed a well-defined bulge. His eyes traced the outlines of two large testicles, one lower than the other, pressed against the man's right thigh. Arcing over the balls was the impression of a short, fat penis. Again, Alvaro caught a whiff of the only pleasant fragrance in the room and allowed himself the fantasy of obtaining a weeks supply of ozone in return for taking this awesomely masculine man to a clean hotel room and feasting on him through the night. As a smile formed on Alvaro's lips, the stocky man groped himself with a wide, hairy hand, thickening the higher impression. Alvaro's gaze met the man's dark eyes as they took him in. He's game, thought Alvaro. He wants his cock sucked.

The man ended his telephone conversation abruptly, hanging up the receiver. He stood and held out his hand. "My name's Sid. What's yours?"

"Alvaro." He shook Sid's hand.

"What's your pleasure, Alvaro?" Sid turned off the television, then stood before Alvaro, his legs spread apart. He groped himself again.

Alvaro stared brazenly at Sid's crotch, licking his lips. The thought of sucking Sid's cock brought a rise to his for-hire cock, but the thought of the approaching ecstasy from the drug made him shudder. "Ozone," he whispered, reaching for Sid's zipper and drawing it down.

Sid inched closer, welcoming Alvaro's hand. "Ozone, huh? You like ozone?"

"Yeah." Alvaro took the dark, uncircumcised cock into his mouth. Not Jewish, huh? Another Turk? But with a name like Sid?

"You look like a really hot guy," said Sid, gently grinding his cock into Alvaro's mouth. "I'll bet you have lots of sex."

Alvaro fell to his knees and began sucking Sid's cock in earnest. He tried to block out all the apartment's offensiveness and imagined frolicking with Sid inside a huge, glass-walled shower.

"How many guys do you have sex with in an average day?"

Sid's unusual questions soon caught Alvaro's attention. "Six, eight . . . sometimes none. I don't know." He hungrily sucked the short, thick cock back into his mouth.

Sid pumped Alvaro's face, cupping the back of the young man's head with his hands. "Oh, shit. You like cock, don't you?"

Alvaro moaned in response.

The pumping became stronger as Sid ran his fingers through Alvaro's hair, pulling it slightly. "Suck my cock, you cocksucker," he hissed. "Suck it. Bite it a little." His breathing became more labored.

Alvaro carefully chewed the thick penis shaft, protecting the sensitive head with his tongue.

"Oh, shit!" Sid inched closer, burying his cock into Alvaro's throat. "I'm going to pop," he warned. "I'm going to pop. I'm . . . Ahh!"

Alvaro felt the throbbing of Sid's cock and tasted the slightly sweet jissom filling his mouth.

The stocky man shuddered and backed away, an ambivalent look passing over his face. Residue from his ejaculation dripped to the floor, and he reached for a handkerchief. "Ozone, coming up." He wiped his cock dry, then stuffed it back inside his trousers. He disappeared into the kitchen.

Alvaro swallowed the semen, something he rarely did. The sense of the sweet aftertaste seemed to mix in his brain with that of the after-shave, creating a retrievable, erotic cocoon—something to hide inside the next time a repulsive "john" insisted upon a blowjob.

Sid returned, holding a small bottle to the light for inspection.

Alvaro wondered if it was really free like Paco had said. "I'm short of funds, man," said Alvaro, his mouth watering at the sight of the bottle. "Maxwell usually lets me . . . ."

Sid extended the bottle. "No problem. Your talented mouth more than paid for it."

Alvaro quickly opened it and stuck his finger inside. He smeared his nostrils with a thick, tan liquid, sniffing it up into his sinuses. He smiled and ceased shaking. Seconds later, he became glassy-eyed and leaned back, a grin on his face. He dreamily watched as Sid's expression changed drastically.

A rap came to the door, but Sid ignored it. Instead, he retrieved a briefcase from the kitchen and returned to the couch. He took out latex gloves and a surgical mask. After putting them on, he pulled out a syringe and an insulated carrying case normally used for insulin. Beads of sweat began to collect on his forehead. His hands trembled. Carefully, he opened the case to reveal an injectable vial of light green liquid. Taking several deep breaths as if to calm himself, he lifted the vial out of the case and injected it with 50 units of air, drawing out the same quantity of the green liquid. He balanced the syringe on the couch, then gently returned the vial to the insulated case, sighing after it was secure again. Chanting a prayer, he held up the syringe in front of his eyes. Entranced, he firmly pinched a section of Alvaro's deltoid muscle and injected the liquid.

It occurred to Alvaro that he should protest, but he couldn't move. "Wha-wazat, man?" he slurred.

In a low timbre, Sid said, "May the wrath of Allah go with you. May your seed bring many white demons to their knees. I am Siddiqqi, exterminating angel of God."

"You're Arab . . . Arabic . . . ." Alvaro tried to focus on the tiny puncture wound in his arm.

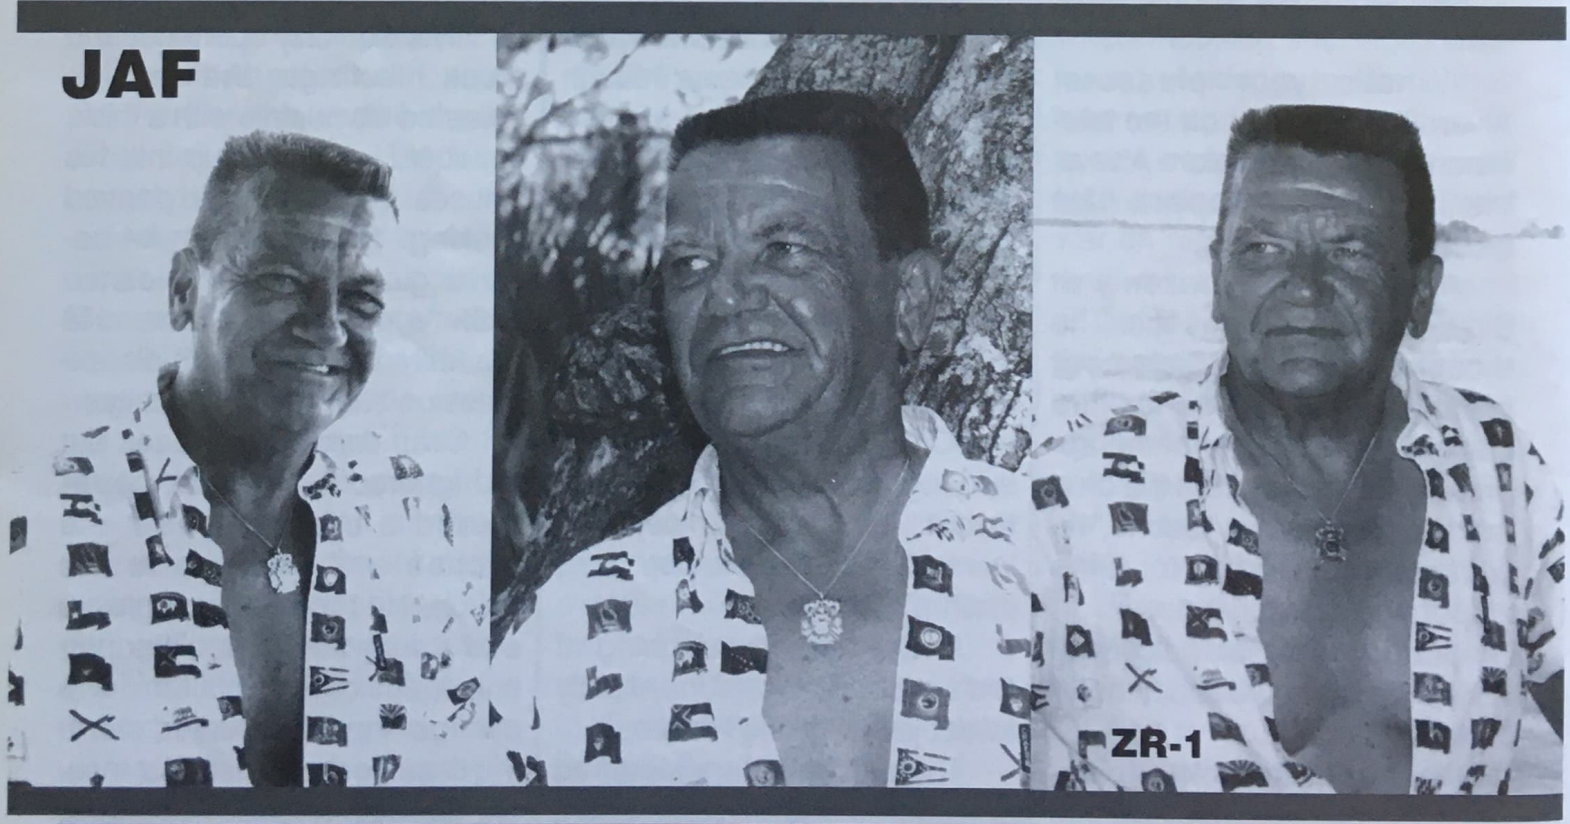
Discarding the syringe on the floor, Siddiqqi placed the mask and gloves inside the briefcase, then swiftly left the apartment.

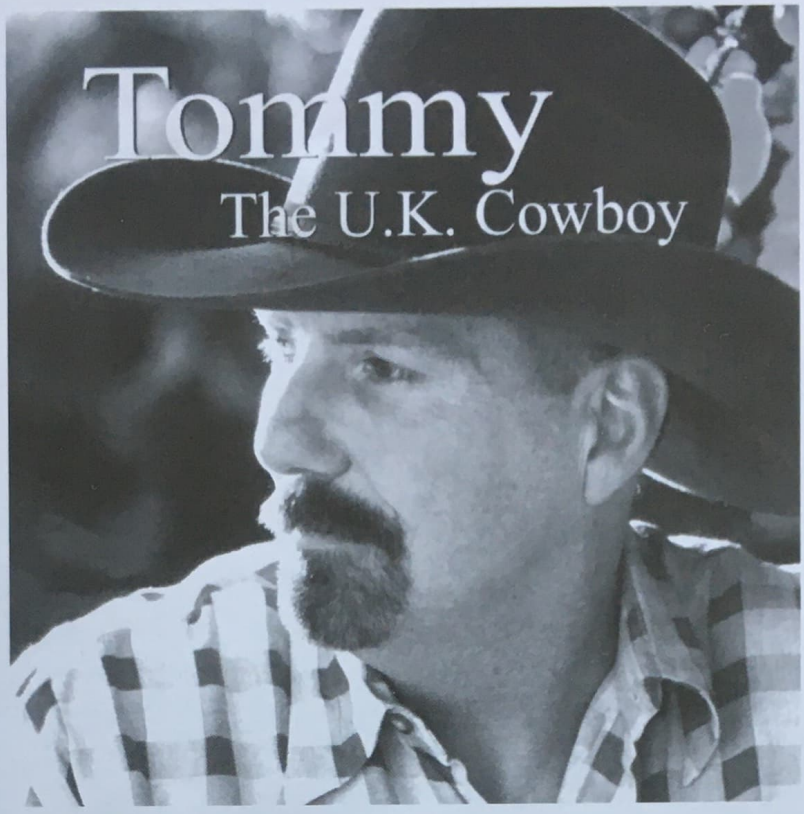
Alvaro's initial rush was soon replaced by a feeling of omnipotence, and his paralysis ebbed. He struggled to his feet and staggered to the window. Unable to open it, he shattered it with a lamp, sending shards of glass onto the dark sidewalk. He peered down and tried to focus on Siddiqqi, who glanced back at him. "What . . . did you give me, motherfucker!"

Siddiqqi disappeared into the shadows.

Hoping to find more drugs, Alvaro tottered into the kitchen, almost falling over Maxwell's body. The pusher had been shot through the neck and lay in a pool of coagulated blood.

Alvaro shook his head, trying to think clearly. "Oh, shit. Gotta get out of here." He ran out of the apartment and down the stairs to the street. He listened for the Arab's footsteps but heard only distant car horns and the muted wailing of a child. That shit was green, he thought. What was that stuff? He reached inside his pocket for the bottle of ozone and, dodging into an alley, smeared a small amount inside his nostrils. Suddenly, the green liquid was forgotten as he felt a sweet rush unmatched by any other drug. His feet seemed to float above the pavement.





Tommy the U.K. Cowboy has been lighting up stages all across the USA for years, performing at rodeos, outdoor festivals, showcases, and benefits with his seasoned band of top musicians, "The Posse." Tommy also performed at the CR Gatherings in Orlando, San Diego and Miami Beach. Performing for thousands of people on a regular basis, Tommy has developed into a performer who knows how to capture an audience and take them for a ride not soon forgotten. As anyone who has ever seen him perform at the gatherings. He makes love to his audiences. His new CD, "Tommy the U.K. Cowboy," has been a revelation for audiences anxious to take a piece of this dynamic performer home with them.

The CD features songs by some of the best country music writers in Nashville and Los Angeles, and has been produced with a sparkling clarity that brings the listener right up on stage with Tommy. This long-awaited project has been garnering rave reviews and lots of local, national, and international attention.

Tommy was born in Helensburg, Scotland and raised in Huddersfield, West Yorkshire, England. Upon Tommy's arrival in the States in 1986, he began performing at local functions and nightclubs around Los Angeles, and within a short time became an in-demand, featured performer at functions throughout California and across the U.S. Tommy believes his unique approach as an entertainer and vocalist has given him a positive outlook on life, which he continuously explores in his music. The local entertainment community around L.A. has referred to Tommy consistently as "a performer with limitless energy and goodwill, who brings something new and real to each and every performance."

Tommy's new CD shows his love for well-crafted tunes and infectious dance melodies. He brought down the house at the gatherings with his rousing performance of "Feel the Rush" and "Closing Time," both of which are featured on this album. I'm disappointed that he didn't include his version of Ricky Martin's "She Bangs," but perhaps he'll do it on a subsequent recording. He did an awesome job on it in Miami Beach.

With the completion of his new project, Tommy is ready to share his passion with the world: LIVE FOR NOW.

You can buy Tommy's new CD by just sending your check or money order in the amount of $15.00, made out to Tommy the U.K. Cowboy to P.O. Box 141, Burbank, CA 91506. You can e-mail Tommy at: TommyUKCB@hotmail.com You can also check out his website at www.tommytheukcowboy.com

JIM GRIM

JIM GRIM AND TOM

When we tried to do a group photo at the New Orleans Gathering, the open ceiling ballroom we had chosen had been heated instead of cooled (in was 90 outside), so we had to do the group shot in two shifts around the small roof pool. There was no elevator which reached that level, and those delegates in wheelchairs couldn't get there, so we took some shots of them separately. I promised Jim that I would publish his photograph, but there was a mix-up on just who took the shot and the photo wasn't found until after the Miami Beach Gathering. And then I got the following letter from Jim's partner, Tom. I told Tom that I still wanted to publish that long-lost photograph. After all, a promise is a promise.

This letter is for Pat. You had called me about a month or so ago, to tell us of your intent to publish a picture of Jim and I in your magazine. I informed you then that Jim had passed away on July 1st from complications of melanoma cancer. You were very concerned and sympathetic, and offered me contact assistance, which I greatly appreciated. You also said that if I supplied you with some personal info on Jim, you might be able to include some type of memorial mention of him in a future issue. So, here goes.

Jim was born in Middletown, PA in 1935, and spent a good portion of his working life in local and national politics. He was very involved in the goings-on of the PA political scene and had the opportunity to meet some very influential people, including several U.S. presidents. Like many of your readers, he went the traditional route of marriage and children. His wife of 26 years passed away in the early eighties, and from there, he "came out" to his friends and family. Jim and I met in January, 1996, in the parking lot of Chardees, no less, and moved in together shortly thereafter. We made our home in North Lauderdale, FL with our cat, Missy, and basically, were one little happy family. He had so many passions, including Broadway musicals, shopping, and to my pleasant surprise, sports, especially football. I always said he was the only gay man I ever met who shared that same passion with me. His two daughters came to visit quite often from Virginia, and they are still family to me.

Jim and I had only been to two gatherings, last year, and the New Orleans one. We were very hesitant at first, but had a hell of a good time and were impressed at how you and your staff helped "virgins" feel welcome.

We were together five and a half years, he was 66 when he passed, and I wish I had met him earlier in our lives. He had so many health related problems, which gradually progressed to the point where he required a wheelchair to get around. But, through it all, he never complained. He had a remarkable zest for life and always managed to stay positive no matter what. He was a hell of a guy, and I'll miss him. He always wanted to see a picture of us in CR, so hopefully, he can still get his wish, even if he's viewing it from heaven. Thanks, again, hopefully, some of this info will be helpful. Take care, Tom

WENDELL AND JYRI'S COMMITMENT CEREMONY IN FINLAND

In January of 2000, two of our subscribers celebrated a commitment ceremony at the MCC Church in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Wendell, 73, from South Dakota, met Jyri, 37, briefly at a CR Gathering in Orlando in '97. It was love at second sight when they rediscovered each other a year later in San Diego. There were some serious distance problems, however. Wendell is a retired American who was pretty flexible, but Jyri is a distinguished Finnish journalist living in Finnish Lapland of all places. Serious problems, right? Wrong. Wendell decided to relocate in Finland, where he was granted his residence permit on the very grounds that he is Jyri's spouse.

In July, 2001, Wendell and Jyri re-celebrated their commitment ceremony in Finland, at the very northernmost part of Europe, where the couple now live. The ceremony was attended by some 50 guests, most of them Jyri's family or straight friends and professional associates.

Their original plan was to celebrate the official registering of their relationship. The Finnish Parliament had long been working to enact a law recognizing same-sex unions. There were, however, delays at the Parliament last spring, and enactment was delayed through the summer recess.

Along with many other Finnish gays and lesbians, Wendell and Jyri expected the registration opportunity to come the following fall, when the Parliament was expected to vote on the matter.

Then on the 28th of September the

THE GUESTS IN FINLAND

Finnish Parliament enacted the law of "registering of same-sex relationships." So, beginning from January 2002, Finnish gay couples will be able to make their relationships 'official'. Gay and lesbian couples get all the same benefits and obligations as married couples, except they won't get a common surname (although it's always possible to change one's name) and gays won't be able to adopt children (even intra-family) as a couple (although a single gay/lesbian person can adopt a child).

So, the celebration Wendell and Jyri already had in July was not for nothing --they will register their same-sex relationship with the Finnish bureaucracies as soon as it's possible.

September 28th was a day of celebration for the couple for two other reasons as well: Wendell got his permanent residence permit in Finland, and they had lived in their new home for a year.

CROSSING THE LINE

by p.h. colley

Over the past 17 years, I have made a lot of mistakes while patching together this new intergenerational and mature men subculture. In spite of all the good Bruce and I have done and will continue to do, I have pissed off a lot of people. Unfortunately I have unintentionally humiliated and hurt some good people.

I have attempted to right all my wrongs by apologizing, and when words were not good enough, I have initiated good deeds. As a result, I have been blessed with the return to the fold of those who meant the most to CR and me personally.

I'm the kind of guy who needs to do very little to attract obsessive, lifelong wrath. It's bad enough when you can see it coming, but when it comes in the form of an ambush from someone you trust, it really smarts and can cause a lot of damage.

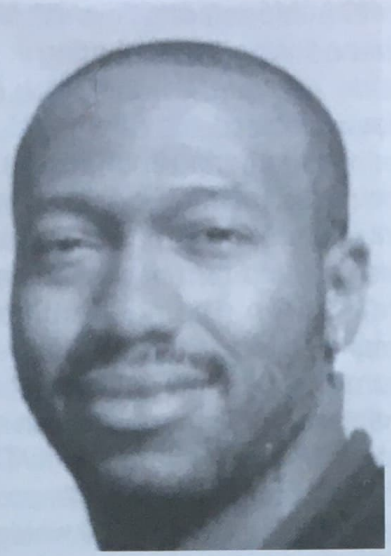
Many have tried, but only six men have betrayed me to the extent that CR and I suffered as a result. The three featured here crossed the line so blatantly that my entire value system eventually changed. If your dagger doesn't kill me, I will surely use it against you.

In addition to righting my own wrongs, I will do all I can to right those injustices inflicted upon CR and myself. What goes around DOES NOT come around, unless you MAKE it come around

Times have changed. Life is short. Time to fight back with graphic answers to three questions most posed by readers:

1. WHY DID YOU STOP DOING ORIGINAL VIDEOS AFTER SWAN SONG?.

ANSWER:



ALLAN LUCAS
(aka SONSHINE)

Allan was a young video and music recording hotshot who was highly recommended by three Chiron Rising Publications, Inc. stockholders. With dreams of finally making a decent living through the sale of quality videos, we hired him and moved him here from Boston. After four extraordinarily expensive months, he finally came up with a video master. (The video bombed, by the way.) Then two days later, he tearfully reported that he had terminal pancreatic cancer and was going to drive back to the East Coast to kill his ex-wife and then himself.

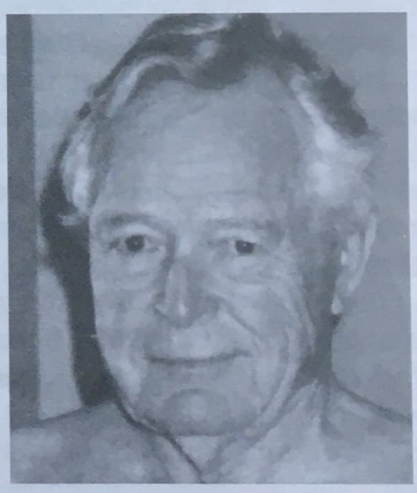
While we stood around scratching our heads, he loaded up his car and took off with equipment and software that belonged to us. Ostensibly to keep us off balance, he filed a police report that we had threatened to kill him. He also filed a false claim with the state labor board that we owed him $18,000 in overtime pay and even declared that we had forced him to make porn videos.

From the police, we found that he was planning to stay in Victorville a few more days. Naturally, based on his threat to kill his ex-wife, we assumed that he had a pistol, so we became paranoid enough to hire a private detective, especially when we thought we saw him following us. We called the three stockholders who had recommended him in the first place. One, in Boston, said he had not heard from him, but the other two in California flat-out refused to tell us what they knew. They were taking Allan's side. Later, I would determine that both knew that Allan had already left for the east coast and could have saved us $10,000 in investigative and legal fees.

Last we heard, Mr. Lucas was healthy, living in Philadelphia, and still chasing older heavy-set guys.

2. WHAT'S WITH YOU AND PRIME TIMERS?

ANSWER:



WOODY BALDWIN
(aka UNICORN)

On the way here, we helped a lot of organizations get started. Prime Timers was only an idea in Woody Baldwin's head when he approached me to see if I would be the umbrella for a new social organization in Boston. I told him I couldn't parent the organization, but I did offer unlimited free advertising and support, prompting him to place an ad in local Boston papers and take the initiative to form the Boston chapter. The little classified ad provided a handful of responses, but the display ad and announcement in Swan got the concept off the ground. Then along came Ken Gould, a wonderful guy (now battling Parkinson's) who lived in Ft. Lee and worked in Manhattan, and he offered to start a chapter in New York. The New York chapter was born, and it thrived big time, thanks to Ken, with over 300 members.

Woody, pleased with northeast growth, moved to Austin, Texas, and started a new chapter there. The ads in Swan (and later Chiron Rising) managed to lure even more chapters into the fold. Of course, some of those chapters were nothing more than cliques that wanted to belong to an organization, but numbers were numbers.

Five chapters strong, Woody again approached me and asked if I could refer him to my overseas senior men group sources. Our deal for five overseas introductions: reciprocal support and cofounder status for me and Ken. I gave Woody the contacts and even contacted them myself to convince them that there was strength in numbers.

Overnight, Prime Timers had a "membership" of over 5,000 but no time for me or Ken Gould. They were "international," my dear.

As expected, along came the splits and infighting and political correctness. I got the impression that the rainbow flag meant more than the American one and that they were indulging in reverse age discrimination, so we backed off our support. And then Woody got in bad favor with the new generation of Prime Timer leaders and was relieved of his power. One of Woody's fiercest supporters, Wayne Patterson, thought it would be a great idea if Woody got a "Lifetime Achievement Award" from Chiron Rising at a gathering in Orlando. I wasn't interested, but Wayne lobbied me relentlessly at our mini-gathering in Charlotte and convinced me that such an award would get Woody back in the PT forefront and turn back the tide of anti-Chiron Rising sentiment among Prime Timers' leaders. He promised that he would get all the chapters to plug the convention and that a "whole slew" of Prime Timers would attend. He further promised that Ken Gould and I would finally start to receive credit for the creation of Prime Timers.

To shorten a boring story, suffice it to say that only one tiny chapter plugged our gathering, only a handful of local Prime Timers attended (and were almost thrown out for harassing an entertainer), and Woody was later found to have starred in a porn video filmed the night of the award in an unauthorized, well planned and sponsored videotaped sex orgy in a Radisson Twin Towers suite. Had I known this, Mr. Lifetime Achievement would have been expelled for breach of his delegate agreement.

Since then, my status with Prime Timers Worldwide and virtually every chapter has been non grata. Recently, however, Woody called me to assure me that Prime Timers was not boycotting or interfering with the CR gatherings as some people (among them, Tomcat) were saying, and I told him I didn't care what Prime Timers did or did not do. He asked me what he could do to make things more friendly between us, and I told him that telling the truth about Ken Gould's and my role in Prime Timers' creation would be a good start.

He promised to change the Prime Timers website to reflect that, but no change was ever made.

3. WHY WAS MIAMI BEACH 2002 REALLY CANCELED?

ANSWER:

TOM PENCE (aka TOMCAT)

No one has hurt us quite as badly as TOMCAT. If you've ever been to a gathering recently, you've met or at least seen TOMCAT, a friendly sort whose SLUT PATROL were our DJs at Orlando, New Orleans, and Miami Beach.

For the past five or so years, Tom and I had evolved into best friends. He was an important source of information and gave me a heads up on a lot of DON'T TELL PAT stuff. He was my deep throat (pardon the pun) in deep cover. He's the one who sent me the orgy tape that Woody starred in during the Orlando gathering in 1997. He's the one who warned me that the Prime Timers inner circle wasn't amused that we had chosen New Orleans, that N.O. was THEIR turf. He's the one who warned me that CR's ex-artist, AARON, was planning to take footage at the 1998 Dan Diego Gathering for a porn video he needed some poolside footage for. I was amazed at how much he was able to find out.

It was obvious to me that he was tempted to go over the top from time to time, but I felt in my heart that he would never hurt me. He always gushed, "I owe you my LIFE, man. You helped me find Bill." He called me his "big brother" and during the planning phase of the New Orleans gathering, he would call me daily. As a matter of fact, he talked me into doing the gathering in New Orleans against my better judgement. I was afraid that the New Orleans gay community wouldn't support us, but he insisted that they would. I maintained that the pool was too small, but he countered with the promise that he would create the "Quarter Crawl" to end all pub crawls.

I should have been suspicious when he ignored my request not to contact the Sheraton. He began driving to New Orleans on a weekly basis, telling people he was one of the CR big shots. Sheraton actually thought that I worked for him. He began to promise special favors for people like limousine drivers and insisted that I donate a block of comp registrations for local charities, press, Mardi Gras officials, and a bunch of guys who agreed to do security in return for a comp.

It turned out to be a fun gathering, but CR lost a lot of money. Few of the comp registrations were claimed, and some complained that Tom had promised them rooms as well. Most of the guys he arranged to work for us showed up for the food but not the work. The article in the local gay rag was two paragraphs long and inaccurate. Worse, the New Orleans gay community never showed up.

Because New Orleans is a very laid back place, Tom's SLUT PATROL threw a "toga" party. Next thing I knew, a small group of guys began flashing their dicks and I worried about Sheraton security. Then the show was over and the flashing stopped, but I got Tomcat aside and told him that such behavior couldn't happen in Miami Beach. He promised it would not.

After the New Orleans gathering, I had to take the corporation into bankruptcy. The hotels in Orlando and New Orleans got burned, so I had two very potent strikes against me personally. I had to pull off both Miami Beach and Las Vegas without a hitch, or CR's gathering days would be over. Tom knew this only too well, because I trusted him with everything. He had the inside scoop

Without a Quarter crawl to organize, Tom spent a lot of time getting ready for his Slut Patrol show in Miami Beach. Then he lost his job as a dealer in a casino. He didn't call me as much as the year before, but when he did call, the subject matter was disturbing to me. I think I came close to losing complete respect for him when he started working for the Miss Cleo tarot card reading group. He told me how the organization had given him the cards and a reference pamphlet on what to say to those who called the 800 number and were rolled over to him. At first it was a big joke, but later, especially after he began to make good money, he told me that he truly believed that he was helping people. It didn't seem to bother him that he was luring emotionally distressed, often times grieving strangers to stay on the line for a long time so he could make more of a commission. So where did that bit of sage advice come from? From Cleo? No. From totally unqualified and zero credentialed Tom Pence.

When the gathering weekend arrived, I was a nervous wreck over problems with the hotel. I knew that they were just waiting to see what kind of group we were going to be and then decide to fuck us royally or invite us back. To my great delight, they liked us right off, and things started going smoothly.

Everything went perfectly until Sunday night. I offered to be "auctioned off" for an AIDS charity, but THE TOMCAT SHOW was running over. Several of us scheduled to be auctioned off gave up and retired for the evening. But on my way upstairs, someone told me that Tom had announced a nude swimming party for later that night. I did an about face at the elevator and pulled Tom aside to find out what was going on.

"It's just a joke," he assured me. "I'll announce that it was only a joke and make sure that no one skinny dips."

Satisfied, I went upstairs to bed.

The next morning, I was handed a very lucrative contract for 2002. Eden Roc wanted us back, and the deal was oh so sweet. I was about to get out of my financial hole.

About ten days later, when Bruce and I got back from the cruise and began to go through the mail, I opened a letter with a photograph inside. It was a picture of a delegate flashing his cock for the camera with a female waitress right behind him.

I called Tom and asked if he knew that some guys were exposing themselves in the ballroom. He said that he had seen no such activity. I asked if he was able to cancel the nude swim party, and he advised that he had.

Later, I found out from other directors that Tomcat had gone way over the top after I left and essentially told them to fuck off when they suggested he tone it down. Then the photographs began to arrive: picture after picture of dick flashing, mooning, and even simulated sex. Some with Tom in them.

One man described Tomcat's coercing a straight female guest to pull down the underwear of two delegates in front of the audience, by that time pumped up into a frenzy by Tom. The woman was intimidated into doing it. She was mortified but wanted to be a "good sport."

I called Eden Roc and asked about the contract, only to find that they had retracted it. The reason? Complaints from hotel staff over the "obscene" behavior in the ballroom--especially what they called the "humiliating treatment" of the straight female guest. There were complaints from hotel security about delegates "having sex in the pool early Monday morning." Hotel employees threatened to file sexual harassment lawsuits against both the hotel and CR (for being forced to work under those conditions).

Despite the resulting immense loss of cash flow, triple the normal cancellations, three shortfalls in a row, loss of subscribers due to the recession, and having my throat neatly sliced by one of my best friends, I was able to scrape up enough money to do this issue. Few cancelled delegates have received refunds, but by God this issue will go out! No one can stop this magazine.

TOMCAT has enlisted various friends to speak on his behalf. They all say the same thing: "But look at all he's done for you."

For them, I draw the following analogy: Say you have a close friend who has done a lot for you. One day he purposely burns down your house and you've found that he's been trashing you all along. Still a close friend?

I had no intention of writing this, but Mr. Pence saw fit to rub salt into the wound. TOMCAT has sent out announcements with the old CR Slut Patrol mascot (the CR is marked off), stating: "Join us in the French Quarter for TOMCAT ON A HOT TIN ROOF, A Celebration of Friends." Spring, 2002. Get it?

Libel suit anyone? Any document I don't have will swiftly come to my grubby hot hands during discovery if anyone files a libel suit. Can you spell "countersuit?"

That's the last time anyone will cross the line on me. No one will be allowed that close to it again. Those who tried to cross it but tripped will be featured in the next issue. We'll answer your questions bluntly, without concern for repercussions. We'll also start tackling stories about guys who've hurt some of our CR family. Know of and have proof of someone who has gotten by with assaulting, fleecing, or hurting in any way one of our family members? Let us hear from you.

Have a nice holiday season!
